DECREES

Article 1. Establishment and activation of the PhD course

The Ferrara Conservatory of Music, in agreement with the Pescara Conservatory of Music, the Trieste Conservatory of Music and the Udine Conservatory of Music, hereby establishes the PhD Course in Composition and Musical Performance for the academic year 2024/2025 (XL cycle). The PhD Course has its administrative headquarters at the Ferrara Conservatory of Music and has a three-year duration, starting on December 1, 2024.

The activation of the PhD course is subject to verification by the MUR of the accreditation requirements, as provided for by the Ministerial Decree 470/2024. The activation of the funded places under the PNRR funds is subject to the actual allocation of resources by the MUR and the completion of the agreements with the companies. Any negative outcome of the accreditation procedure, which could prejudice the activation of the course and the assignment of the advertised positions, will be promptly communicated to the applicants.

Article 2. Competition announcement

A public competition, based on qualifications and examinations, is hereby announced at the Ferrara Conservatory for the admission to the PhD Course in Composition and Musical Performance, referred to in Article 1 of this announcement, for the academic year 2024/2025.

Article 3. Description and purpose of the PhD Course

The PhD Course in Composition and Musical Performance is a three-year research and study program aimed at composers and performers from different fields and genres of music. Inspired by internationally recognized principles and methods of artistic research, this program aims to combine the artist's practice and knowledge (including bodily knowledge) with critical and creative reflection. In this way, PhD students will learn to deepen and rethink their own musical practice, also in relation to the historical, social, institutional, economic and technological context in which they operate.

The PhD in Composition and Musical Performance aims to train musician-researchers with advanced skills in musical practice and theoretical research. Students will develop innovative research projects that combine artistic creativity and academic rigor, contributing to the development of music and related disciplines.

In order to foster the creation of a dynamic and collaborative research environment, teaching, training and artistic activities are organized in a single curriculum but will take place in the four cities of the promoting Conservatories (Ferrara, Pescara, Trieste, Udine). In this way, PhD students – whether composers or performers, active in the field of acoustic or electroacoustic music – will not only be able to cooperate more easily with each other but also interact with teachers and students of the Conservatories or with external guests in adequate infrastructures and services (concert halls, luthier’s workshop, multimedia classrooms, recording studio, instruments, staff, library, etc.).

The program offers PhD researchers the skills and tools necessary for a methodologically organized reflection on their own artistic practice, allowing them to treat the research topic according to innovative forms and content. The training path creates the conditions for the development of individual projects with a wide range of teaching and training activities: group lessons, workshops, seminars, conferences, individual supervision.

Article 8. Commission and Admission Exam

The Commission responsible for evaluating the candidates will be appointed by decree by the Director of the Conservatory of Ferrara and will be made public through publication on the website of the Conservatory of Ferrara: https://conservatorioferrara.it/index.php/ricerca/dottorati. It is composed of four members and one or more substitutes, chosen from the tenured professors of the Conservatories of Music promoting the Doctoral Course. An administrative staff unit may act as verbalizing secretary.

In its first meeting and before starting all the remaining selection procedures, the Commission will identify and report in the relevant minutes the criteria and methods for assigning scores and the consequent method of drawing up the rankings.

Admission to the doctoral program is based on a selection process that evaluates both academic qualifications and research potential. The aim of the selection process is to identify candidates with a strong academic background, research skills, and a genuine interest in pursuing artistic research. The selection process consists of an evaluation of the research proposal, the applicant's curriculum vitae, and their artistic portfolio, followed by an online interview.

The evaluation of the research proposal, curriculum vitae, and artistic portfolio will take place before the interview. The results of the evaluation will be available on the website of the Conservatory of Ferrara on the course page.

The research proposal, which must be structured according to the standard template provided, is only relevant for the selection process and does not bind the choice of the doctoral thesis in case of admission.

Article 9. Selection of Candidates

The selection of candidates will take place in two phases:

1. Evaluation of the Research Project and Qualifications: The Commission will evaluate the research project, curriculum and artistic portfolio of the candidates.

2. Public Oral Interview: The candidates who pass the first phase will be invited to an oral interview, during which they will present their research project and answer questions about their skills and interests.
After the competition tests have been completed, the Judging Commission will draw up a special report, indicating the evaluation criteria used, the score awarded to each candidate and the general ranking of merit. The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of the general ranking.

In case of equal scores, the younger candidate will prevail, pursuant to art. 2, paragraph 9, of Law 191/1998.

The final ranking will be published by September 25, 2024 on the website of the Conservatory of Music of Ferrara.

Article 10. Evaluation of the Research Project and Qualifications

The Commission will evaluate the qualifications according to the following criteria:

1. Quality and coherence of the research project: up to 30 points
2. Curriculum vitae and artistic portfolio: up to 30 points
3. Oral interview: up to 40 points

Since all scholarships are theme-based, the coherence of the research project with the theme is a requirement for evaluation, therefore the research project must necessarily refer to the theme of interest under penalty of exclusion of the application. In case of admission to the doctoral program, the candidate will carry out the research training path and the thesis in coherence with the assigned theme.

The evaluation of the curriculum and artistic portfolio concerns the training path at the Conservatory or University, any further training paths and professional and research experiences, any scientific publications and artistic activity.

Candidates who score no less than 15 points in the evaluation of the research project and no less than 15 points in the evaluation of the curriculum and artistic portfolio will be admitted to the interview.

Article 11. Oral Interview

The oral interview is public and will take place online from September 10, 2024 onwards. The detailed timetable of the tests, with the indication of the day, month, time and link where they will take place, will be made public at least 5 days in advance of the date of the first test, by publication on the website of the Conservatory, at the following address: https://conservatorio-ferrara.it/index.php/ricerca/dottorati.

No personal communications will be sent to candidates to participate in the tests; therefore, information on the selection tests will be available exclusively through the online method indicated above.

The oral interview is aimed at verifying the candidate's knowledge of topics related to the educational and scientific areas of the doctoral program and includes a presentation of the proposed project, followed by a general discussion aimed at verifying the candidate's skills, scientific qualities and motivations. The interview may also be aimed at verifying the candidate's aptitude for research, willingness to undertake experiences abroad and scientific interests.

The interview is conducted in Italian; in any case, candidates may request to take the test in English.
To take the tests, candidates must show a valid identity card or passport. The oral interview is awarded a maximum of 40 points.

Article 12. Publication of the Ranking

The Commission is required to complete its work by September 16, 2024.

At the end of the exams, the Commission will compile the general ranking of merit based on the sum of the scores obtained by the candidates in the individual tests (in the evaluation of the research project, the curriculum and the portfolio, and the oral interview). The candidate is considered eligible if he or she has reached the minimum score of 70/100.

The final ranking will be published on the website of the Ferrara Conservatory of Music and constitutes notification to the interested parties who will not receive any written communication. The winners of the competition must confirm their acceptance of the place within 5 days of the publication of the ranking.

Article 13. Admission to the Courses

Candidates are admitted to the course according to the order of the ranking up to the number of places available for the competition. Candidates admitted to the course will forfeit their place if they do not enroll within the deadlines for enrollment. In such cases, another eligible candidate will be admitted according to the order of the ranking. The same applies if any of those admitted withdraw within three months of the start of the course.

If the person who withdraws has already received scholarship installments, he or she is obliged to return them. Substitute candidates will be contacted personally by email by the Secretariat of the Ferrara Conservatory of Music: they will receive the appropriate instructions and deadlines for enrollment.

Article 14. Enrollment

Admitted candidates must complete their enrollment by October 15, 2024, following the procedures outlined on the website of the Ferrara Conservatory of Music (except for candidates who have taken over following a withdrawal according to Article 12, paragraph 2 of this Call). In the event of withdrawal or failure to enroll within the specified deadlines, subsequent candidates on the ranking list will be admitted.

Candidates are admitted to the course provisionally and may be excluded if they do not meet the required qualifications.

Enrolled doctoral students are required to pay the annual regional tax for the right to education of €140.00, a stamp duty of €16.00, and an insurance premium of €8.25.

Withdrawal from the doctoral program does not entitle the student to a refund of the enrollment fees already paid.

During enrollment, candidates with a foreign degree must obligatorily provide the following documentation:

a. Italian tax code (codice fiscale);
b. Valid residence permit or student visa (for non-EU citizens residing abroad).

The validity of foreign qualifications will be verified at the time of document submission. Until then, candidates are admitted to the course provisionally and may be excluded from the rankings if they do not meet the required qualifications.

Non-EU citizens are also required to submit a pre-enrollment application on the Universitaly website (https://www.universitaly.it) in order to obtain a student visa.

Article 15. Scholarships

The scholarships for the doctoral course, with an annual amount of €16,243.00 as of the date of issuance of this provision (gross of social security contributions borne by the scholarship recipient), are awarded to the winners according to the order of the ranking list, in accordance with the regulations in force. Scholarships are paid monthly.

The scholarship amount is exempt from income tax (Irpef) pursuant to Article 4 of Law No. 476 of August 13, 1984, and is subject, in terms of social security, to the provisions of Article 2, paragraphs 26 and following, of Law No. 335 of August 8, 1995, as amended.

The scholarship is compatible with income derived from employment, exclusively in cases provided by the current regulations and the Academic Regulations of the Ferrara Conservatory of Music concerning doctoral programs, provided it does not exceed the amount of the scholarship itself. The income limit is understood as the gross amount received in the year of maximum entitlement of the scholarship.

In the case of scholarships co-financed by external entities under D.M. 630/2024, the Ferrara Conservatory of Music reserves the right not to proceed with the assignment if the funding entity does not formalize its commitments in the necessary agreement. In any case, the scholarship will not be paid to the assigned doctoral student until the relevant annual amount has been transferred by the funding entity.

Scholarships have a total duration of at least three years and are renewed annually, provided that the doctoral student has been admitted by the Doctoral Committee to the subsequent year, subject to verification of the regular and effective completion of the activities planned for the previous year.

In addition to the scholarship, and within the financial resources available in the budget of the Conservatories promoting the Doctoral Course, each doctoral student is assured, starting from the first year, a research budget in Italy and abroad determined for each course at 10% of the annual gross amount of the scholarship.

In case of withdrawal from the scholarship, the individual must notify the Secretariat of the Ferrara Conservatory of Music, which will forward the information to the National Research Office.

Annex A. Research Project Topics

Bound Research Topics for Scholarships under D.M. 629/2024 (PNRR Doctorates)

Topic 1

SOUND, NOISE, TIMBRE

Sound, in its infinite variety and complexity, represents a universe that has not yet been fully explored. Music, in particular, offers fertile ground for investigating the deep connections between sound, sensation, and meaning. This research topic aims to investigate the multiple facets of the creation, manipulation, and perception of timbre in musical contexts.

The research project related to this topic may include:

• The study of the physical and psychoacoustic properties that define the timbre of a specific instrument, voice, or complex sound;
• Experimentation within one's compositional or performance practice with new technologies for sound synthesis, sampling, and manipulation;
• Creation of immersive soundscapes that explore the potential of sound in space and human perception;
• Innovative use of traditional instruments in one's musical practice through extended techniques.

Topic 2

CREATIVE PROCESSES IN COMPOSITION AND IMPROVISATION

Music thrives on two fundamental creative forces: composition and improvisation. These two realms, seemingly distinct, intertwine and influence each other, creating an ever-evolving sonic universe. This topic aims to investigate the creative processes underlying musical composition and improvisation.

In their research project, the doctoral candidate can consider:

• Different compositional methodologies and strategies, exploring the formal structures and musical processing techniques employed by composers;
• The distinctive characteristics of improvisation, such as unexpectedness, interaction among musicians, and the ability to generate extemporaneous music;
• The nature of (traditional) notation and its relationship to compositional and improvisational practice;
• Experimentation in their own artistic practice with alternative grammars and syntaxes, examining the use of open, non-linear, and indeterminate formal structures in composition and improvisation;
• Interactions between composers, performers, and technologies in their compositional and/or improvisational artistic practice.
Topic 3

RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN MUSIC AND OTHER DISCIPLINES OR ARTS

Music extends beyond the realm of notes and melodies, weaving deep connections with other art forms and various disciplines. This research topic aims to explore the synergies and fruitful exchanges between music and other fields of knowledge.

This research project can include:

• The relationship between music and thought in one's compositional and/or performance practice, also drawing inspiration from the significance and function that philosophy has had for certain composers or in specific historical periods;
• The role of music in theatre, analysing and rethinking how it contributes to the creation of atmospheres and the depiction of characters;
• The relationships between artistic research in music and in visual arts, analyzing and imagining possible reciprocal influences and forms of hybrid artistic expression;

Investigating the relationships between music and literature through and within one's artistic practice, analyzing the interaction between music and poetry, narrative, or theatre.

Topic 4

PERFORMANCE AND MUSICAL INVENTION

Musical performance represents a fascinating and ever-evolving universe, where the act of playing intertwines with multiple elements, creating a rich and complex experience. This research topic allows for the exploration of the various dimensions that characterize performance and musical practice.

The doctoral candidate can pursue the following objectives in their research:

• Analyze and reconsider how the relationship between musicians, audience, and performance space influences (their) musical performance;
• Explore how the cultural, social, and historical background of the musician and the audience influences the interpretation and enjoyment of music;
• Study and conceive new methods of musical execution and experimental performances that go beyond the traditional concert form;
• Evaluate the impact of technologies and media on the creation, execution, and fruition of music, analyzing the new opportunities they offer;
• Investigate how the body and gestures determine the experience of music in (their) musical practice.

Topic 5

THE IMPACT OF TECHNOLOGY ON MUSIC

In the digital age, music is inextricably intertwined with technology, creating an ever-evolving sonic universe. This research topic aims to critically investigate the pervasive role of technology in the creation, dissemination, and fruition of music.

The research project can include:
• Exploring how DAW software, virtual instruments, and digital production techniques transform the compositional process and musical realization in one's own practice and that of other musicians;
• Evaluating the impact of MIDI controllers, digital synthesizers, and sound design technologies on (one's own) musical performance and sound experimentation;
• Investigating how digital technologies have revolutionized the recording, reproduction, and distribution of music, affecting its accessibility, commercialisation, and consumption;
• Investigating the applications of artificial intelligence in music and musical analysis through the creation of new practices in composition and music fruition.

Topic 6

MUSIC AND IDENTITY

Music is not just a collection of sounds and structures but a powerful apparatus that reflects, expresses, and shapes individual and collective identity. This research topic aims to investigate the deep connections between music, cultural identity, and social identity.

The project related to this topic may include:

- Exploring, also through one's artistic practice, how music can simultaneously reinforce and destabilize traditions, values, and customs of different cultures, influencing the sense of belonging to a community;
- Evaluating how music is used by social groups, ethnic minorities, political movements, and religious groups to express their identity, values, and claims;
- Investigating the use of music as a tool for social mobilization and protest;
- Exploring how globalization, migration, and digital technologies influence the relationship between music and individual and collective identity;
- Imagining and experimenting with new musical practices that promote processes of individual and collective emancipation.

Topic 7

MUSIC, SOUNDSCAPE, SILENCE

This research topic aims to explore the sonic universe that surrounds us, the so-called soundscape, investigating both theoretical and experimental research on the relationship between music and soundscape and their artistic applications.

In this research project, the doctoral candidate can pursue the following objectives:

- Study the definition of soundscape, its philosophical implications, and its relationship to music;
- Create tools for the in-depth analysis of existing soundscapes to better understand their structure and impact;
- Study, also through one's artistic practice, the psychological and physiological effects of music, soundscapes, and silence, evaluating their impact on work and health;
- Explore the relationship between soundscape and cultural identity, analyzing how sounds define and reinforce the sense of belonging to a community;
- Utilize artificial intelligence and machine learning for the creation of variable music and soundscapes in relation to human presence.

THE ROLE OF THE AUDIENCE IN MUSICAL PERFORMANCE

Musical performance can be conceived as an experience that is completed and transformed in relation to the presence and involvement of the audience. This research topic aims to investigate the multiple facets of the audience’s role in musical performance.

The research project can include:

- Critically analyzing the genesis and evolution of the notion of the audience in Western societies;
- Examining the strategies used by cultural institutions to educate and engage the audience in the enjoyment of music;
- Creating musical pieces that evolve and adapt based on the actions and reactions of the audience, including through the use of sensors, facial recognition technologies, or artificial intelligence software;
